

THE GOOD SOCIETY : PSYCHOSOCIAL ROOT

Man can be kindly or cruel, altruistic or selfish, aloof of participating, intelligent or stupid, well-informed or ignorant. Every social good has roots in individual minds--and so has every social evil. These traits are learned not genetic: they are socially conditioned.

Inw 82911
FT 072